

10.A.1

An ideal Brayton cycle consists of:

Answer: Two isobaric and two isentropic processes.

Explanation: The IDEAL CLOSED Brayton cycle consists of two isobaric processes (heating the gasses in a combustion chamber and reducing the temperature of the gasses in the heat exchanger) and two isentropic (the compressor and the turbine).