

Heat Conduction: Task 9

The image describes a body whose area increases linearly from left to right and the highest temperature is on the right side.

1

The area increases from left to right so the temperature gradient decreases.