

Insulated vs. isolated

What is the difference between an insulated and an isolated system?

Answer: In an insulated system energy in the form of work can cross the boundary of the system, in an isolated system this is not possible

Definition closed, isolated and insulated. So the difference is that energy in the form of work can be transferred in an insulated system.