

Absolute temperature difference

A metal piece is kept in a freezer at -20°C. We want to take it out and heat it until it reaches the temperature of 0°C. What will be the absolute temperature difference between the initial and final states?

Answer: 20 K

The absolute difference between 273 K (0 °C) and 253 K (-20 °C) is 20 K.