

Heat Conduction: Task 24

The image describes a body with parabolic area and maximum temperature on the right side.

1

The area decreases from right to left so the temperature gradient increases.

2

The area in the middle is constant and we don't have material change.

3

The area increases from right to left so the temperature gradient decreases.