For practical applications c_v is always greater than c_P